

Raccoons

The raccoon's black markings under their eyes help them see clearly. The black fur absorbs the incoming light which reduces the glare that would otherwise bounce into their eyes and hinder their vision.

